Horse Farms

When you think of Horse Country, you have to think of Woodford County. Home to some of the most prominent, successful and historic farms in the world, Woodford County welcomes you to experience the very best when you visit with us.

SOMETHING FOR EVERYONE

Just a few of our many notable locations include Airdrie Stud, Winstar Farm, Lane's End Farm and Coolmore America's Ashford Stud – and you can visit these and many more. Head over to www.visithorsecountry.com (or call 859-963-1004) to book a ticket and view the various experiences offered. From stallion-focused operations to nurseries with lots of mamas and babies, from equine clinics to race tracks, sales, after-care, and even a feed mill and sport horse farm – you really can see it all.

Each tour available from the members of the not-for-profit Visit Horse Country is hosted by guides on the farm or at the location, and includes up close and personal attention, photo opportunities galore, lots of stories and, of course, the horses! You pick the experience and the farm – customize your itinerary to your specific interests and schedule. Interested in a multi-location offering or guided transportation? Horse Country can help with that too.

WHAT TO DO & WHERE TO GO

You can also check out a whole itinerary dedicated to a day in Woodford County! Make a day of it like a local and include a stop off at one of the great restaurants around like Addie's in Versailles or Mezzo Italian Café – each of those is conveniently located on main streets with quaint boutiques and shops to explore as well.

Don't forget to pick up a Visit Horse Country passport at locations around the region and complete a path. Request a passport, check out our various paths, or find a local pick up/drop off spot online today!

FOR EVERY SEASON

Kentucky is wonderful to visit in every season, and for the horse industry there's something unique about every season.

Springtime brings one of the busiest times for the horse world as new babies are born every day and breeding season is in full swing, with the April Meet at Keeneland the Kentucky Derby on the way. Recommended tour: Nursery Farm – see the babies!

By summer time, the beautiful Bluegrass has bloomed into verdant pastures and deep green swaying trees surrounding frolicking weanlings and the first of the sale preparations. Recommended Tour: Stallion Farm – breeding season is on the downswing and most stallions are at home with a less busy schedule.

Fall is magic in Kentucky, and any tour or racing day at Keeneland's October Meet will be complemented by rich colors of fiery maples and bright gingkos. Add a visit to one of the premier sales happening in our area in addition to visiting one of our beautiful farms.

There's even plenty to keep you occupied in the winter time – tours do run year-round, though availability is more limited in winter months. If you need something else to do, winter is a great time to warm up with our fellow attractions: Wine & Bourbon...if you catch our drift.

Woodford Reserve Distillery

Nestled amid the rolling hills of bluegrass and thoroughbred farms sits our historic Woodford Reserve Distillery. One of Kentucky's oldest and smallest distilleries, the present day Woodford Reserve Distillery is built on history, sitting on Kentucky's oldest distilling site where Elijah Pepper began crafting whiskey in 1812. It was on these same hallowed grounds that years later Master Distiller James Christopher Crow perfected his whiskey-making methods, which today have become common practice, including the implementation of sour mash into fermentation.

The Distillery is home to a 500-foot-long gravity-fed barrel run, our iconic copper pot stills, and 100-year-old cypress wood fermenters. We also boast one of the only heat cycled barrelhouses in the world, ensuring every drop seeps into the charred and toasted white oak, giving Woodford Reserve its color and signature flavor. We invite you to come visit us, enjoy our bourbon, take in our scenery, and embrace our history. Come visit us in the heart of bourbon country. Take a guided educational tour through the Distillery that explains the history of bourbon, how we're unique at all five sources of flavor, the bottling process, and much more.

Castle & Key Distillery

From the Historic site of Old Taylor Distillery under Restoration by Partners Including Marianne Barnes, the First Female Master Distiller of Bourbon in KY. Inside the walls of a 19th century limestone castle in the heart of bourbon country, history is being honored and made. Master Distiller Marianne Barnes and her team are painstakingly resurrecting the historic site of the former Old Taylor Distillery to produce their Castle & Key brand bourbon and gin. Production of Castle & Key's flagship bottled-in-bond bourbon is planned to begin this summer. As Barnes puts it, "The core of Colonel Taylor's vision with bottled-in-bond was building a relationship of trust with his consumer, providing a literal guarantee of bourbon's authenticity and, by extension, quality. Our goal is to embrace and enhance that vision, creating products and sharing the story from the plow to the bottling line." Castle & Key plans to introduce a KY native botanical recipe gin this year, rye whiskey by 2018, and, then, traditional style Bottled-in-Bond bourbon to honor the Colonel's legacy. When founding partners, Will Arvin and Wesley Murry, first saw the 1887 distillery, it had sat decaying for over 40 years. Despite decades of neglect, Arvin and Murry recognized the potential of the site with much of the existing buildings and equipment in a salvageable condition. "Under the rubble and overgrowth, there were 100 year old buildings that were still structurally sound and architecturally astounding, and while a number of people seemed to have passed on this hidden treasure, we knew it could be revived to make great spirits," notes Arvin.

2018 Red Tie Gala

At the 2018 Red Tie Gala the following businesses were recognized for their contributions to the community.

Outstanding Farmer of the Year

Each year the Outstanding Farmer of the Year is selected from those producers who have demonstrated their ability to not only have a productive farm business, but show leadership qualities as well beyond the farm.

Adam Mitchell

This year's award winner has been farming full-time since 2007. He raises primarily tobacco, hay, and beef cattle in conjunction with his younger brother, Lucas, and Uncle Donald. Beyond the farm he has served on the Woodford County Agricultural Development Board and Woodford County Extension District Board in many capacities, and currently serving as the Extension District Board Chairman.

The above students were part of "SPARK" The Community Activist Class at Woodford County High School and helped at the Red Tie Gala.

Distinguished Farmer of the Year

Debby Prewitt

The Distinguished Farmer of the Year has traditionally been a producer who has dedicated a significant portion of their life's work toward not only farming, but improving agriculture within Woodford County as well.

This year's award winner breaks the traditional mold. She doesn't have a farm in the conventional sense; but lives through serving others. This individual has generated millions of dollars into the local economy over the years by providing sound farm advice and service at Woodford Feed since 1978. Whether it is providing a recommendation for Japanese beetle control on your roses to what the pasture mix should be for the next Triple Crown winner, she genuinely advocates for the farmer. She has also served on many boards and councils throughout the years.

Business of the Year Award

Presented to the Woodford County Chamber member who has contributed greatly to Woodford County.

Midway Business Association Award received by Leslie Penn

This member has contributed to the success of the numerous events held annually in Midway through their promotions, ideas, and volunteers. These efforts have drawn thousands of people to Midway and Woodford County.

New Business of the Year Award

Presented to a Chamber member who has been in business for at least 6 months and has experienced note-worthy growth and success.

Versailles Brewing Company Award received by Curtis Congleton

This business started by local entrepreneurs has provided residents and visitors of Woodford County the opportunity to have dinner, drinks and events in a Uniquely Woodford County venue. They have grown tremendously since opening by adding meeting space and live entertain thus causing them to grow in size.

Business Impact Award

Presented to the Woodford County Chamber member who has made or will make a major economic impact in Woodford County.

Holiday Inn Express & Suites

Award received by Lee Howard, Don Howard & Jeff Yeary

This business has, and will continue to have a great economic impact in Versailles and Woodford County. With the addition of our new hotel Woodford County now can accommodate many individuals that would have normally stayed in other counties.

This will not only add to the economy of Woodford County but will help the Tourism Commission draw more individuals and families to our wonderful community.

Tourism Achievement Award

Presented to a tourist attraction for their contribution as a local asset and their success in promoting tourism.

The Kentucky Castle Award received by Matt Dawson

Under new ownership, this tourist attraction has hosted many weddings, concerts, special events and now on Wednesdays the Woodford County farmers market. It has become a show place for individuals visiting or living in Woodford County and has long been an icon of the community.

Legacy Award

Presented to the Woodford County Chamber of Commerce member who has been a member of the Chamber for a minimum of 10 years and has continued to make a positive impact on the community.

Woodford County Judge Executive John Coyle

This individual has been a long time member of the Chamber and has always been one of the Chamber's major supporters. His outstanding work has helped our membership grow while also keeping the county in a good financial position. We will miss this individual as he steps down from his current position.
